

Dr. Morteza Aghmesheh

Professor Aghmesheh is a Medical Oncologist at Illawarra Cancer Care Centre, The Wollongong Hospital and is an honorary Clinical Professor at the UOW Graduate School of Medicine.

Morteza (Mori) is a co-director of Southern Cancer Institute and Southern Medical Day Care Centre at Wollongong. Mori spent most of his medical training at Prince of Wales and St George Hospitals at Sydney, NSW.

He completed a post-graduate course (Graduate Diploma in Molecular Genetics) at the School of Biochemistry & Molecular Genetics, at the University of New South Wales, Sydney in 1998.

Subsequently he completed a PhD in Cancer Genetics at Hereditary Cancer Clinic, Prince Of Wales Hospital and School of Medicine, the University of New South Wales between in 2003.

