

Gayle Tomlinson

Gayle Tomlinson is an award-winning journalist with 25 years of experience having worked with some of the UK and Australia's largest news publishers helping them to transition from print-focused businesses to sustainable digital enterprises.

Most recently she was Head of Audience for Australian Community Media, setting digital subscription strategy for 160 news titles.

Gayle moved to Australia five years ago with her husband and two boys and fell in love with the Illawarra.

She jumped at the opportunity to represent the Illawarra as Editor of the Illawarra Mercury and is looking forward to keeping readers informed and entertained with the Mercury's coverage on its news app, website and in print.

